This is the  memorandum I discussed with you this morning. In rereading Paragraph 3, it is not clear that the waveguide work is actually stopped. Half-way through, it is indicated that the contractor has been directed to stop work on the item 4 which is the waveguide transmission experiment. However, in the latter part of the sentence, it indicates that more work is to be done in getting data out of these experiments. My basic reservations regarding the applicability of the results in the waveguide chamber to do actual flight tests appears in the last part of Paragraph 3.
